Above class requires permission of instructor. Most entry level archaeology jobs require a field school and this class provides that qualification. This course will be held off campus in St Clair County Illinois and is an opportunity for students to learn the methods and theories of archaeology by actually doing archaeology. Students will conduct excavations in a 1000 year old village and survey areas surrounding mounds and caves. Housing will be provided but entails a housing fee and instead of a textbook students will need to assemble a dig kit. For more information contact professor Alt susalt@indiana.edu

Above class designed to help you prepare for upper-level Biology courses. Therefore, class time is used for collaborative, active, and inquiry-based activities meant to deepen your understanding of course topics and to provide practice in disciplinary thinking (e.g., visualizing biological processes, making predictions, drawing conclusions from data, and reading and analyzing scientific publications). Because students learn and retain information best when they are actively engaged during class, the structure of this course is flipped relative to that of a traditional classroom. There will be two, highly interactive, required class meetings per week. Before each class, you will view recorded lectures, participate on Canvas discussion board, read textbook and complete textbook-related online activities. Your out-of-class studies will be guided by video outlines and/or question banks. Our three-hour weekly sessions will include individual quizzes, team-based quizzes, team-based activities, and whole-class discussions.

12965 PERM 1 ARR ARR ARR ENG X395 and MEST M390 Special Topic: ‘From Pilgrimage to Grand Tour: The Via Francigena from Canterbury to Rome’ 3 Credits June 14-July 5, 2020
In this Bicentennial Grand Expedition, students will make a pilgrimage from Canterbury to Rome, walking over 200 km (120 miles) of the ancient pilgrimage route, the Via Francigena, and gathering each day for lectures on and discussion of the history, art, and cities we encounter along the route. Our approach will be interdisciplinary: we will read excerpts from pilgrim writings and literature, examine early maps, learn about art and architecture, and consider the later treatments of these paths by later writers (such as the romantics on their grand tours, who traversed the same landscapes and often wrote about the places they saw and admired). Yet over the course of the class’s three weeks, the via itself will be our primary classroom, providing much of the content for our shared reflection on the experience of pilgrimage in both the past and in our own world and on the uses and meanings of medieval places, ideas, art, and culture.

The class will meet several times during the spring 2020 semester to prepare for the walk. Course assignments include active participation in daily discussions, several short blog posts or online photo essays, an ‘expert guide’ presentation and contribution to our course guidebook, and a final essay that will be due one week after the completion of the course. Participants need to be in good health in order to complete the walking portions of this course which will require waking up to 16 miles a day over sometimes mountainous terrain.

This is a study abroad course. Students must apply for this course via the College Office of International Affairs to register. For more information, or to apply to the course, students can visit: https://tinyurl.com/Vyp3g6x, email colIOA@indiana.edu or contact Prof. Gayk at sgayk@indiana.edu for more information.

MATH-M 211 I, II (4 CR)
M 211: The Indiana University Math Department is proud to announce that it will again be offering an online Version of Calculus I (MATH-M 211) for credit during the first Summer Session of 2019. Students not currently enrolled at IU full time may register for the class by first enrolling as a non-degree student through the Office of Admissions. All exams will be taken through pre-approved proctoring arrangements (local faculty proctoring, certain testing centers, etc.) in order to eliminate the need to travel back and forth to campus. Anyone with questions regarding the course may contact the Instructor, Jim Hendrickson, at jamhendr@indiana.edu

The Federal Policymaking & Special Education short course is intended to provide graduate students with an introduction to becoming effective leaders in education through participation in the legislative process. Participants will be provided with the opportunity to learn and practice the skills needed to be an effective advocate for K-12 students with disabilities and preschool children. Public policy impacts the field of education immensely, and graduate students must be prepared to become active participants in the process by utilizing their research and practical experience to advocate on behalf of students with disabilities, their families, and preservice teachers.
Through meetings with federal level policymakers, self-advocates, and national organization members, the participants will be engaged in dialogue about key education issues and be provided with the opportunity to find their place within the policymaking process.

You care about your students. You know their futures depend on learning to be agile problem-solvers and decision makers with creative ideas. In this course you will learn toolssets, mindsets, and skillsets designed to increase student engagement by fueling curiosity and confidence in their own creative thinking. Learn a new way of teaching with creative thinking and apply it to your existing curriculum and learning goals. Join us for this fun and interactive class!
