The goals of this course are to provide a fundamental understanding of virus structure and function, and to strengthen critical thinking skills of students. The course will examine key concepts in structural virology, focusing on the molecular mechanisms underlying viral replication. We will follow the replication cycle of viruses, including virus structure, virus attachment and cell entry, protein expression and genome replication, and assembly and release of virus particles. The content will include a combination of PowerPoint presentations and discussion of primary research papers.

Knowledge of these principles will form a foundation for gaining practical experience and training in biological electron microscopy. At the completion of this course, participants will have become skilled in applying some of the techniques and concepts necessary to independently initiate projects on quantitative protein unfolding/folding, protein-ligand binding, protein size distribution, protein secondary and tertiary structure, or any number of other quantitative biophysics applications.

-------	------	---------------	----	---------	--------

Get a taste of the real world of brand management with this hands-on practicum. You will have the opportunity to work on a real brand (preferably national) for nine weeks with teammates who offer a variety of expertise including strategy, design, and media. Students from the Kelley School of Business, The Media School, and the Eskenazi School of Art, Architecture + Design are encouraged to enroll. The team composition mimics what students will experience in their future jobs and hence, prepares them to see a business problem from a different lens and appreciate the diversity of views. Apply your skills to develop implementable strategies and tactics, bridging classroom theory with practical application. Application is required for enrollment: <https://bit.ly/M310SP2025>

 In this course, students will begin to explore the personal, institutional, political, and cultural forces that impact the lived experience of being a professional teacher. Possible key questions for reflection include: How does self-knowledge help teachers positively shape their professional lives? How does school culture shape the day-to-day life of teachers and how do you identify a school culture that is right for you? How does the current emphasis on standardized testing impact the life of a teacher and how can teachers positively respond to this? What does it mean to be a role model and what are the challenges and opportunities presented by this social role? What does community mean and how are teachers participants in and facilitators of positive community? Exploration of these questions will occur through student centered, hands-on, and interactive classroom activities

 Education Career Exploration explores the career possibilities for anyone who is curious about the broad range of careers and workplaces that fall within the spectrum of education. Students will research and reflect on potential careers and discuss current topics that affect education industries. Education Career Exploration offers students an in-depth look at the wide array of careers within the education field, encompassing roles in K-12 schools, higher education, community organizations, educational technology, and more. Through research, reflection, and discussion, students will examine potential career paths and consider the different environments in which educational professionals work. They will explore relevant industry topics such as classroom management, policy, family and community engagement, and emerging technologies to gain insights into the dynamic landscape of education careers. By the end of the course, students will have a clearer sense of potential career goals and an understanding of the skills and competencies required to thrive in various educational settings.

In this course, students will begin to explore the personal, institutional, political, and cultural forces that impact the lived experience of being a professional teacher. Possible key questions for reflection include: How does self-knowledge help teachers positively shape their professional lives? How does school culture shape the day-to-day life of teachers and how do you identify a school culture that is right for you? How does the current emphasis on standardized testing impact the life of a teacher and how can teachers positively respond to this? What does it mean to be a role model and what are the challenges and opportunities presented by this social role? What does community mean and how are teachers participants in and facilitators of positive community? Exploration of these questions will occur through student centered, hands-on, and interactive classroom activities. Above class for Freshman, Sophomores, Juniors, & Seniors

Above class meets for a non-standard 13-week session (Tuesday 1/14 - Thursday 4/17)

This course is about you and how to open up your individual creative potential. Guided by your curiosity and passion, you will explore your power to innovate through a series of workshops and a culminating final project. Along the way, you will discover how creativity can go beyond the arts to open up a world of possibility in any field: from science, medicine, and business to law, education, philosophy and beyond

TOPIC : Tackling Test Anxiety
Are you dreading an upcoming test? Do you blank out or have trouble focusing every time you take a big exam? Are you frustrated because you consistently find that your scores don't match what you feel you really know? Preparing for an important professional school entrance exam - the MCAT, LSAT, etc.?

This course is all about evidence-backed strategies for taking your anxiety level way down for any kind of test - whether that be for professional school entrance exams or finals in your most difficult courses.

Our approach centers on how to 1) apply the science of powerful learning to better prepare for important tests; 2) create effective schedules and habits for studying so it sticks; and 3) transform the emotions that come up before, during, and after the test to achieve your performance and professional goals.

Students will develop techniques to efficiently sight read and learn unfamiliar pieces quickly through targeted exercises and practical applications. The course will cover a range of strategies, including improving rhythmic accuracy, expanding harmonic understanding, and applying contextual clues to understand musical scores in the context of collaborative repertoire. Emphasis will be placed on building a solid foundation in sight reading and learning skills while fostering the ability to adapt quickly to new and varied musical challenges.

34506	PERM	ARR	ARR	ARR	Clarke L	According to Jonathan Rosenberg, former senior vice president of Google, Data is the sword of the 21st century, those who wield it well, the Samurai. In recent decades, survey data have become powerful swords that inform government policy making, business and nonprofit decision-making, political campaigns, legal decisions, and academic research in many fields of study. This course will give you the skills that you will need to harness the power of surveys: How do I select a sample? How do I design survey questions? How do I collect the data? As part of the class, students will be exposed to many real world survey examples. This is a rigorous, upper-level undergraduate class designed for those with an interest in research methods.
