What can we learn from TikTok, advertisements, and movies?
More broadly, how does the media depict race, gender, class, and sexuality as well as the intersection of these identities? In this course, you will learn how to creatively analyze and critique messages of power, knowledge, and social structures in media. You will also use innovative methods, such as poetry, photography, and collage to explore your identities and challenge taken-for-granted messages about race, gender, class, and sexuality Above class meets second eight weeks only

VT: MIND-BODY SKILLS GROUP
35764		06:20 P-07:50 P	T	ED 2275	McCord E	10	1	0

TOPIC : Mind-Body Skills Group

In a highly interactive, small-group setting, explore and practice evidence-based mind-body techniques useful for intentionally connecting with your mind and body; regulating your autonomic nervous system(responsible for the "fight or flight" response); and tapping into your internal wisdom. Skills we will explore include: meditation (concentrative, expressive, and mindfulness), visualization, imagery, body scans, and more. No experience with the use of these skills is necessary. Come as you are, ready to learn about how these skills can be a valuable component of your personal wellness and self-care hygiene routine.

Above class requires mandatory participation in 4-5 in-person workshops

This course is designed to assist the transformation from student to teacher. It allows students to delve more deeply into areas of interest by attending workshops and events in the School of Education; often these experiences include learning from alumni teachers, principals, and other administrators who are currently in the field. Taken entirely at the student's pace, the class includes attendance at live School of Education professional development events (either in-person or on Zoom) followed by reflective writing submitted via Canvas

In this course, students will begin to explore the personal, institutional, political, and cultural forces that impact the lived experience of being a professional teacher. Possible key questions for reflection include: How does self-knowledge help teachers positively shape their professional lives? How does school culture shape the day-to-day life of teachers and how do you identify a school culture that is right for you? How does the current emphasis on standardized testing impact the life of a teacher and how can teachers positively respond to this? What does it mean to be a role model and what are the challenges and opportunities presented by this social role? What does community mean and how are teachers participants in and facilitators of positive community? Exploration of these questions will occur through student centered, hands-on, and interactive classroom activities There is a required fee for enrollment in this class: Online Grad Learning Center Fee - Education. P : University Division Students
Above class for Exploratory freshmen in University Division
In this small class, we will build a warm, supportive learning community where you will discover more about who you are and what you want as you connect with how to seek meaning and purpose in your education. As we continue our work together, you will make new friends and learn how to build strong relationships with your own personal support team of academic advisors, career coaches, professors, and many other helpers and guides on campus. You will also learn new ways to upgrade your skills to deepen your learning and meet the challenges of college academic work. Finally, throughout our travels on this road, we will engage in rich conversations and equip you with useful tools on the journey as you figure out how to make important decisions about classes, majors, and how those choices can connect to a life of fulfilling work, service to others, continued learning, and joy

In this small class, we will build a warm, supportive learning community where you will discover more about who you are and what you want as you connect with how to seek meaning and purpose in your education. As we continue our work together, you will make new friends and learn how to build strong relationships with your own personal support team of academic advisors, career coaches, professors, and many other helpers and guides on campus. You will also learn new ways to upgrade your skills to deepen your learning and meet the challenges of college academic work. Finally, throughout our travels on this road, we will engage in rich conversations and equip you with useful tools on the journey as you figure out how to make important decisions about classes, majors, and how those choices can connect to a life of fulfilling work, service to others, continued learning, and joy

	This course serves as a basic introduction to applied R programming. The course will cover data structures (e.g., matrices, data frames, lists), basic principles of programming (e.g., control structures like for and if), data analysis (e.g., descriptive statistics, correlations, t-tests), and basic visualization. All needed software can be downloaded for free and does not require any paid subscription. No previous knowledge of R is needed. The final exam will consist of a project. The class meets 100% Online through Synchronous instruction. Please do not consider the course description below as it is not up to date.

INTRO TO MEDICINE: This course will provide an overview of the medical field (knowledge and skill requirements), as well as information on prerequisites and applying to medical school. In addition, it will introduce concepts from medical ethics, emotional intelligence, diversity equity and inclusion, as well as financial considerations to orientate students towards developing competencies in domains required for effective patient care.
